Merchants Blamed By Master Forger

LOS ANGELES — Charles R. Speedie has been described by police as one of the nation's cleverest check passers but he claims his operation required no exceptional talent.

"I wasn't particularly smart," Speedie declared after his arraignment Monday on seven counts of forgery. "It was just that merchants are so careless."

Speedie, arrested in a Cleveland suburb earlier this month on a tip from Los Angeles police, estimated he passed a half million dollars worth of phony checks in more than a decade of unmolesed traveling around the country.

5 Crewmen from Sailing Ship Rescued in Stormy Atlantic

LONDON — Five crewmen of the German sailing ship Pamir were rescued Monday from a leaking lifeboat. They said no more than 25 others could have survived.

They reported only one other lifeboat, loaded with 25 crewmen, got away when disaster and Hurricane Carrie struck Saturday in the Atlantic. The Pamir carried a crew of 86.

Their report spurred a search by 10 ships in the stormy area 550 miles southwest of the Azores. It was a race with the violent sea. The five men said high waves washed five of their comrades overboard to their deaths only a short time before a U.S. freighter came out of the murk to save them.

Tunisia OKs Arms Offer By Nasser

CAIRO — President Nasser has offered arms to Tunisia and that pro-Western North African nation announced today it is accepting.

The announcement of acceptance was confirmed by the government in Tunis. In Tunis, a spokesman said a mission would leave shortly for Cairo to fix conditions for delivery of the weapons. He did not say what kind of weapons were involved.

The Tunisian spokesman said Nasser's offer was made a week ago after President Habib Bourguiba in a speech appealed to "brother countries" to help Tunisia. Tunisia has been having its troubles with the French in adjoining Algeria and there have been border clashes.

The spokesman said Tunisia's acceptance "does not change in any way the attitude of Tunisia with regard to the Western bloc."

He added it also would have no effect on Tunisia's attitude toward an imminent U. S. reply to Tunisia's request for arms. It has been reported the U. S. government is sympathetic to Tunisia but wants to go slow to avoid offending the French.

Egypt has received large shipments of Communist bloc arms in the last two years and now has surplus of obsolete British, French and U. S. equipment.

U.S. Naval Force In Mediterranean

WITH U. S. 6TH FLEET — The mightiest concentration of U. S. Naval and Marine forces in the Mediterranean since the war massed today off the Aegean entrance to the strategic Dardanelles for NATO military exercises.

The maneuvers, called "Deepwater," will continue through Sept. 28 with the participation of land, sea and air forces of Greece, Italy, Turkey, Britain and the United States.

The U. S. 6th Fleet which usually consists of about 50 ships, was reinforced with 8,000 Marines for the exercises in which amphibious landings will be made.

Typhoon Slows Down

MANILA — Typhoon Faye's winds dropped to 75 miles an hour today from a peak of 120 miles as she swept westward across the northern Philippines.

Argentine Strike Set

BUENOS AIRES — Leaders of 62 unions today called a 24-hour general strike for Friday to back up demands that wages be adjusted to rising living costs.

were spotted earlier in the day, leading to hope that the other lifeboat still was afloat.

The five survivors were found by the 7,251-ton Isbrandtsen Lines freighter Saxon. The Saxon radioed they were in fair condition despite the buffeting.

THEY WERE transferred Monday night to the Military Sea Transport Service ship Geiger for medical treatment. They will be taken to Casablanca.

U. S. Coast Guard officials in New York said messages from the Saxon indicated the second lifeboat had been launched Sunday night. But there was no information as to how long the five men had been in their small boat.

The operators of the Pamir, the Zerssen Co. of Hamburg, quoted the survivors as saying they do not know whether the vessel actually sank.

They said their lifeboat was launched while the Pamir was still afloat and that they did not see her go down.

The last word from the Pamir came Saturday when she sent out a distress signal saying: "Heavy hurricane. All sails lost, 45-degree list, danger of sinking."

The ship was bound from Buenos Aires to Hamburg with a cargo of barley. She left Buenos Aires Aug. 9. She carried 51 cadets training for the German merchant navy and 35 regular crewmen.

Youth Camp In Lake Hope Area Planned

COLUMBUS — Final plans for a $250,000 youth camp for juvenile offenders to be constructed in the Lake Hope area in Vinton County are on the drawing boards. Gov. C. William O'Neill told Republican members of the Ohio Senate today.

The governor met at the mansion with the senators to go over several departmental reports and discuss current problems.

O'Neill also said the number of patients in Ohio's mental hospitals has dropped to the lowest figure in four years despite a record admission rate of 12,000 yearly.

Earlier the governor had announced his intent to open camps similar to the civilian conservation camps of the 1930s as a move to reduce juvenile delinquency.

He attributed the decrease in mental patients to stepped-up social service functions for returning patients to the community when cured or ready for placement in a rest or nursing home; successful use of drugs and substantial increase in the number of treatment personnel.

During the discussion the governor told the legislators: "Steps have been taken to relieve the overcrowding in our juvenile institutions by establishing forestry camps and reopening units which have been closed for lack of personnel." He said these latter include three cottages at the Girls' Industrial School in Delaware and two wards at the Juvenile Diagnostic Center in Columbus.

Famed Surgeon Dies At 97 in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS — Dr. Rudolph Matas, whose revolutionary work in surgical techniques opened broad new fields to medicine, died Monday night at 97.

Death came quietly to the kindly, stooped surgeon once lauded by another great doctor, William J. Mayo, as the "greatest surgeon I have known." Matas had been hospitalized for two years.

He drew honors from a dozen nations for his work in blood vessel surgery, the use of anesthesia and transfusions.

Girard Fires Fatal Shell 'Just for Joke'

Fellow GI Testifies At Japanese Trial Of American Soldier

SOMAGAHARA, Japan — A U.S. soldier testified today that William S. Girard just for a joke fired an empty cartridge case that killed a Japanese woman after the two enticed her within range.

Victor Nickel, testifying at an outdoor session of Girard's Japanese manslaughter trial, said he tossed more than 10 brass cartridge cases from a machinegun emplacement they were guarding at Girard's suggestion.

"Girard then pointed to the ground and said 'Mamasan, daijobu (OK),' the Inkster, Mich., soldier declared adding that Girard "motioned to her that it was all right to pick up brass."

Testifying on the muddy firing range hillside where Mrs. Naka Sakai was fatally wounded last Jan. 30.

Presiding Judge Yuzo Kawachi wearing a raincoat and broad straw sombrero, asked Nickel: "Did you think Girard shot the woman in fun?"

"Yes, for a joke," Nickel said. Nickel said, however, he did not see Girard scatter brass as the indictment against Girard contends.

"If he did I didn't see him do it," Nickel testified.

TESTIMONY by Nickel, the only American witness to the shooting, varied at least on some points from that given by Girard himself at a morning session.

The two indicated points approximately 25 feet apart as the spot where Girard stood when he fired the shots. Nickel's testimony would put Girard about 25 feet closer to Mrs. Sakai.

"Did the mamasan, in response to Girard's motion, come from here to here?" Judge Kawachi asked, motioning forward with his hands.

"Yes," Nickel answered. "I saw her bend over and start picking up the brass. . . . Then when she saw Girard get up she ran away. Then Girard fired. . . . after she started to run."

Nickel said Girard fired first at a Japanese man farther down the hill and the second time at Mrs. Sakai.

When the woman fell, the soldier said, "The Japanese started to kick up a commotion. Girard went over and when he came back he was scared."

"He asked, 'What'll we do next?'" Nickel's testimony came after Girard had pointed out to the court where he said he stood and where Mrs. Sakai fell.

"Did you fire one, two or three times?" Kawachi asked. "Two times," Girard replied. Asked which of his shots hit, he replied, "The second."

"Did you see her fall," asked Kawachi.

"Yes sir."

The trial recessed and is to resume Wednesday.

General Motors Aides Face Idleness

DETROIT — General Motors Corp. says some 16,000 employees in seven Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac assembly plants across the country will be idled indefinitely because of strikes at two GM supplier plants.

A spokesman said Monday that assembly work in 1958 models is being held up because stampings are not available from the strike-bound Mansfield, Ohio and Marion, Ind., plants. The two plants fabricate stampings for the Buick, Olds and Pontiac divisions. Assembly work on 1958 models was scheduled to start Monday.

Members of the United Auto Workers union struck the Mansfield and Marion plants last week in disputes over local issues.

Little Rock Is Electrified By President's New Action

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Stunned by the rioting and strife of the last 24 hours, people in Little Rock reacted with surprise and relief today to the announcement that President Eisenhower has ordered federalization of Arkansas National Guard troops.

It was electrifying news here. "My God, has he done that?" cried Claude Carpenter, one of Gov. Orval Faubus' key aides.

Lieut. Gov. Nathan Gordon, also caught by surprise, said "I can't conceive of anything I can do if the President has taken that action."

He offered no other comment. Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, commander of the guard, hastened to the state capitol building to confer with Gordon.

Faubus was flying back to Little Rock from Sea Island, Ga., where he has been attending the Southern Governors' Conference.

HE HAS BEEN insisting that the President has no authority to move in on the danger-ridden Little Rock situation. He said federal troops could be brought in only at his request and that he had no intention of making any such request.

Faubus issued a statement to the people of Little Rock: "Do not under any circumstances attempt to take the law into your hands or use any methods except lawful means."

Earlier, the Arkansas governor claimed "vindication" in his stand three weeks ago when he called out National Guardsmen because he said he feared "violence."

But Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland, a Republican, fired this blast at Faubus:

"Gov. Faubus wrote the book, set the stage and directed the play for today's unhappy occurrences in Arkansas. He gave the cues to his players in screaming headlines predicting violence."

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas division of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said the Negro pupils would not attempt again to enter Central High without assurances of protection from the President.

That seemed to indicate that for the time being the nine pupils would not go back to Central High. Only the nine have been certified by the city board of education to be eligible to be integrated with the 2000 white pupils at Central High.

THE AFTERMATH of Monday's violence stirred a storm of claims and counterclaims.

"We are a disgraced city because of a handful of people," said Mayor Woodrow Mann.

Lt. Gov. Nathan Gordon said he would not recall the National Guard to restore order without a written request from Mann because he said he would not "take Mann's word for anything. Monday to be polite I said his statement was not correct. Today I say he is a liar."

This referred to a report denied later by the mayor that he had asked Gordon for help from the National Guard.

Mann said during the earlier stages of the dispute in Little Rock that he knew of no threat of violence over integration and that it was unnecessary for Faubus to call out the National Guardsmen.

While this city appeared to be calm this morning city police and state troopers were busy Monday night answering calls reporting fights between whites and Negroes.

2 Korean GIs Die Before Firing Squad

SEOUL — A Korean army colonel and a sergeant died today before a firing squad for the assassination in 1956 of Lt. Gen. Kim Chang Yong, army chief of counter-intelligence.

"I die for the cause of justice," said Col. Huh Tai Yung, 36, just before he and Sgt. Lee Yoo Hoi, 27, were executed.

Earlier, the union said negotiators for the utility would not talk fringe benefits until agreement had been reached on general wage increases. The company has offered $2 to $4.50 on a one-year contract or $2.50 to $5 on a 15-month pact. CWA has rejected both as inadequate.

The walkout, affecting 45 cities, was eight days old today.

Asian Flu Feared Present In Sandusky Area School

COLUMBUS — Asian Flu has struck a school in the Sandusky area, the Ohio Department of Health reported today.

While only one case among the school children has been definitely confirmed as being Asian Flu, Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, state health director, said it is possible there are 180 cases of Asian Flu there.

The outbreak of influenza which Dr. Dwork said began about Thursday, Sept. 12, reached its peak six days later. He called the outbreak "higher than usual" for a school.

Dr. Dwork said outbreaks of very similar illnesses now are being investigated in three schools in Lucas County, which he declined to identify.

The influenza was reported to a district-state health officer by Dr. Richard Fishell, Erie County-Sandusky health commissioner. State checks began last Thursday.

Dr. Fishell, in Sandusky, said Perkins School, two miles south of Sandusky, appears to be the center of an outbreak of illness. He said only 28 pupils were absent today, compared with 68 Monday, groes. Most of them turned out to be of minor importance. A gang fight between about 50 Negro and white teenagers toed off what may have been the most serious incident. State Trooper Louis Cone said that when he told a car occupied by two Negro men and three women to move on the driver attempted to run him down.

CONE WHO was knocked down by the automobile said he jumped up fired two shots at the fleeing car and then gave chase in his own automobile. A city policeman also fired a shot and two city police cars joined in the chase.

Pursuit ended at a dead-end street about 12 blocks away when the Negroes' car bounced into a yard and smashed into a fence.

City police booked Curtis Patrick, 22, of Little Rock for disturbing the peace and Clarence R. Saunders, 29, of Bunkie, La., an airman stationed at the Little Rock Air Force Base for disturbing the peace carrying a concealed weapon (officers said he had a "metal club") and assault with a deadly weapon. The latter charge stemmed from Sanders' attempt to run down Trooper Cone, who suffered a bruised leg.

Chicago Labor Leader 'Gains' In Hoffa Fight

CINCINNATI — A veteran Chicago labor leader who seeks the presidency of the International Teamster union, says he thinks he has enough delegates pledged to him to swing his election.

Thomas J. Haggerty, who earlier said he had 800 of the 1,846 eligible votes, said Monday: "I feel that I have picked up at least 160 votes."

Haggerty, who opposes Midwest Teamster chief James R. Hoffa for the presidency, stopped here briefly on his campaign tour before the union convention opens next week in Florida.

The Chicago candidate said that Teamsters in the Chicago area, which earlier agreed to support Hoffa, then switched to no candidate.

William Lee of Chicago, a Teamster vice president, telephoned Haggerty Monday, saying he had withdrawn support of Hoffa. Lee said he planned a conference with Chicago's Joint Teamster Council. Haggerty said it might swing the votes to him.

A breakdown of Cincinnati delegates shows 11 for Haggerty, 5 for Hoffa and 9 uncommitted.

Haggerty returned to Chicago late Monday.

6 Hoffa Aides To Face Probers

WASHINGTON — Senate rackety investigators today called in a half dozen of James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union aides to tell whether money they gave him represented loans or kickbacks.

The probers said the subordinates will be asked whether the payments they made to Hoffa were voluntary or forced. Hoffa has testified he borrowed the money but has not repaid it.

Chairman McClellan (D - Ark) predicted the new hearings would produce evidence of shakedowns and alleged misuse of $100,000 to $150,000 in union funds and would touch on promotion schemes, rigged elections and union - employer entanglements.

President Says Little Rock Shuns Orders

Force to Integrate High School Seen as Chieftain's Objective

NEWPORT, R. I. — President Eisenhower today ordered federalization of the Arkansas National Guard and the state's Air National Guard to deal with Little Rock school integration crisis.

At the same time Eisenhower's vacation quarters announced he will fly back to Washington later in the day for a nationwide television-radio address tonight on the crisis. He expects to go on the air about 8 p. m. (EST).

Eisenhower ordered Secretary of Defense Wilson to federalize the Arkansas Guard units in an executive order which said a presidential cease and desist order to Little Rock rioters had not been obeyed.

Federalization of the Arkansas Guard units means they become a part of the U. S. forces, and no longer under control of the governor of the state.

That means, in turn, the troops can be used to safeguard admittance of Negro pupils to the Little Rock high school.

Eisenhower also authorized Wilson to call out such United States troops as he deemed necessary to deal with the situation.

Eisenhower Monday said he would use the full power of the United States, including whatever force necessary to prevent any obstruction of the law in the Little Rock school integration crisis.

HE FOLLOWED that up with a proclamation clearing the legal way for calling out federal troops in the case.

In his executive order today the President said:

"The cease and desist command contained in that proclamation of last night has not been obeyed and willful obstruction of said court order still exists and threatens to continue."

Eisenhower signed his executive order shortly after a crowd of about 200 white men and women watched at Little Rock's Central High School today.

There had been no violence in contrast to Monday but the nine Negroes who entered the

Cost of Living Goes Up for 12th Month

WASHINGTON — The government reported today the cost of living rose two-tenths of 1 percent in August. It is the twelfth consecutive monthly advance.

This took the Labor Department's consumer price index to 121 per cent of the 1947-49 average 3.6 per cent higher than a year ago.

Food prices rose four-tenths of 1 percent during the month, housing costs were up two-tenths of 1 percent, but the prices of non-food commodities remained unchanged.

The retail food price index was at a record high of 117.9 in August, 4.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, said the increase in the cost of living will mean automatic pay raises for about 157,000 workers whose union contracts tie wage rates to the index. The increases, generally two to three cents per hour, will be mostly in the aircraft industry, with a few in the glass and metals industries.

Additional Probation For Felons Is Urged

NEW YORK — Civic leaders from Ohio, Washington, Michigan, Texas and Montana have urged prison officials to place more men on probation in order to restore the prisoners to more useful lives and to reduce increasing costs of handling prisoners. The proposal was made by citizen action groups formed to study crime problems in the five states.

Burglary Aide Gets Probation

Court Orders Restitution

A woman who took part in the July 28 burglary of Tink's Tavern was placed on probation for three years last week by Common Pleas Judge William Ammer.

The woman, Mrs. Henrietta Diamond, 22, Columbus, had pleaded guilty to charges of grand larceny and burglary. She was charged with being an accomplice to her husband, William Diamond, in the burglary in which $275 in cash and whiskey was taken from the tavern.

Her husband was sentenced earlier last week to a 1-15 year term for his part in the crime. A case against Albert C. Shirley, 36, of Columbus, also charged with taking part in the burglary, is pending.

Among the conditions of Mrs. Diamond's probation are that she pay to Tink's Tavern, $275, the estimated value of the loot, within six months, and that she must not change her residence without consent of County Prosecutor Ray Davis.

IN A CASE of probation violation, Judge Ammer extended the probation period of David Fauch, to five years from May 16, 1955, the date Fauch was put on probation on an unarmed robbery count.

Judge Ammer said that Fauch was "not likely again to engage in unlawful conduct", however, he ordered Fauch to observe the previous conditions of his probation namely, to stay out of places selling intoxicating liquors, to refrain from drinking such liquors, to maintain gainful employment and to re-establish affiliation with the church.

The distance around Ohio's borders is approximately 1024 miles.

Ultimatum Said Being Readied For Teamsters

AFL-CIO Reported Laying Down Law on Clean-Up of Union

NEW YORK (AP)—The Teamsters Union today reportedly faced an ultimatum from the AFL-CIO high command to clean up within a month or be suspended from the merged labor federation.

The fate of the nation's biggest union and the future of James R. Hoffa in the merged labor movement rested with the 29-member AFL-CIO Executive Council, meeting in extraordinary session.

The council was expected to receive late today or Wednesday a recommendation by the eight-member AFL-CIO Executive Committee for action against the scandal-tainted Teamsters Union.

Members of the Executive Committee were reported to have agreed unanimously Monday night on the fixing of a 30-day deadline for corrective action by the 1,480,000-member union. However, no public announcement of the committee's decision was made.

The council was expected to issue the formal cleanup mandate to the Teamsters.

HOFFA, powerful vice president of the Teamsters now battling for the presidency, is a principal target of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, which has charged corruption in the Teamsters' top echelons.

Members of the AFL-CIO Executive Committee indicated again Monday night that promotion of Hoffa from vice president to president at the Teamsters' convention in Miami Beach next week would lead to ouster of the union.

Action on the Teamster Union may be pushed off until Wednesday by the Executive Council's against two other unions.

Housecleaning ultimatums were expected to be delivered to both.

They are the United Textile Workers of America, with more than 40,000 members, and the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union, with more than 138,000 members.

The UTAW is separate from the Textile Workers Union of America, a larger union which was a CIO affiliate before the labor merger in 1955.

Hoffa, who was in New York Monday for a one-day break in his pre-convention activities in Miami Beach, continued to ignore the pending AFL-CIO action against his union.

He again expressed confidence that he will be elected president of the Teamsters as successor to the retiring Dave Beck who, like Hoffa, is a prime target of the Senate Rackets Committee and the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee.

President Says

school Monday and then withdrew were not on hand today.

A spokesman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had said Monday night that the youngsters would not attempt to re-enter the school until the President assured them of protection.

James Hagerty, the President's press secretary left no doubt either Monday night or early this morning that the calling-out of troops was entirely possible.

Eisenhower's legal right to order troops into Little Rock already has been challenged by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) among others.

McClellan took the position Eisenhower has no legal authority to use federal troops to enforce integration.

He noted that Congress, in passing civil rights legislation at the last session, repealed a Reconstruction era law that empowered the President to use troops to enforce court orders in civil rights cases.

Taking note of such challenges, Hagerty quoted provisions of the U. S. code under which Eisenhower acted Monday night and asserted without naming names:

"It would seem to me that other people quoting laws on the President's action do not know what they are talking about."

Hagerty was asked specifically and repeatedly whether the President might call out troops simply to assure Negro students safe passage into and out of the Little Rock school. The point of these questions was: Would the President await outbreak of fresh violence before ordering troops into the school area.

"I am not going to have any comment on these matters," Hagerty replied over and over again. "We'll just wait and see."

A reporter suggested the President's proclamation ordered the Little Rock crowd to disperse, but asked what was being done about actually getting the Negro children into the school.

Hagerty said the President was taking every possible legal means, and had been doing so right from the start, to bring about enforcement of the orders of a federal district court.

Eisenhower acted under Title 10 of the United States Code. Its provisions say in part:

"Whenever the President considers that unlawful obstructions, combinations, or assemblages, or rebellion against the authority of the United States, make it impracticable to enforce the laws of the United States in any state or territory by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, he may call into federal service such of the militia of any state, and use such of the armed forces as he considers necessary to enforce those laws and to suppress the rebellion."

That statute appears to give the President full authority to federalize the Arkansas National Guard, use militia troops from other states, or call on the U.S. Army.

Judge Shea Jails 3 Drivers For Driving while Drinking

Judge Walter M. Shea, sitting by assignment for the first time on Circleville's Municipal Court bench, handled a long list of cases yesterday afternoon including five motorists who appeared on accusations of driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Three of the intoxicated drivers appeared on double accusations.

The stiffest penalty handed down by Judge Shea was against Leroy Smith Jr., 34, Roseville. Arrested by city police, he was fined $200 and costs, sentenced to 10 days in jail and had his driver's license suspended subject to compliance with state law. Judge Shea suspended $100 of the fine and seven days of the jail sentence and placed Smith on probation for one year.

Smith also was fined $50 and costs and sentenced 10 days in jail for driving with no operator's license. The two jail terms are to run consecutively.

JOHN Bowles, Columbus, arrested by the sheriff's department for intoxicated driving, was fined $200 and costs, sentenced 10 days in jail and had his driver's license suspended subject to state law. The judge later suspended $100 of the fine and seven days of the sentence and placed Bowles on one-year probation. He also was fined $25 and costs for no operator's license.

The third double accusation was against Leslie Sparks, 29, Columbus. Arrested by the sheriff's department he received a similar penalty for driving under the influence and $15 and costs for driving left of center.

Leonard Griffin, 42, Jackson, and Amos Rice, 35, Columbus, were the other two motorists accused.

Seven days of the jail sentences and $100 of the fines were suspended and each was placed on probation for one year. Griffin was arrested by city police and Rice by the sheriff's department.

The largest speeding fine was against Marion Rose, 34, Columbus. He was fined $35 and costs on an accusation by the State Highway Patrol of speeding 95 miles per hour.

Other patrol cases were: Martin Flanagan, 36, Chillicothe, and Paul Anderson, 18, Grove City; each fined $20 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Glen Smales, 54, Columbus; $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour.

Earl Millar, 68, Ashville; $10 and costs for failure to yield the right of way.

Two more drivers cited by the sheriff's department were: Jennings Allen, 26, Columbus; $30 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Frank Taylor Jr., 44, Columbus; $25 and costs for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle.

OTHER police cases were: Brooks Morgan, 45, Lancaster; $16.50 bond forfeiture for passing a red light.

Galen Kearns Jr., 26, 131 Fairview Ave.; $5 and costs for blocking an alley.

Ray T. McGrail, 46, Cincinnati; $5 and costs for passing a red light.

Judge Shea ended the day's session by fining two Lockbourne nimrods for hunting violations. Joe Harper, 19, and Lawrence Hayes, 27, each was fined $15 and costs for failing to display a hunting license and $10 and costs for hunting without permission. They were arrested on affidavits by Clarence Francis, Pickaway County game protector.

Lindy's Route Routine for Max

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Association
Correspondent

LOCKHAVEN, N. Y.—Now that Mayflower II has successfully duplicated in most essential details the original trip of the Pilgrims, how would it be for someone to reenact Charles A. Lindbergh's epoch-making New York to Paris hop, just 25 years after?

It may be news to most people, but there is a contemporary of Lindbergh who operates one of the world's most unusual flying services out of this famous air field where so much aviation history has been made who has done it not once, but 25 times! He is Max Conrad, who like Lindbergh is a native Minnesotan 54 years old compared with Lindbergh's 55, and like Lindbergh, so modest about his accomplishments that they have gone largely unnoticed by the general public although among those "in the know" he is known as "Mr. Private Aviator" and as one of the real pioneers and living legends of aviation in this country.

Since 1930, he has been ferrying small private planes to Europe and other parts of the world to particularly impatient wealthy buyers of American models. Some of Conrad's 25 transatlantic hops have been in planes which, though modern, are tiny compared with Lindbergh's Ryan-Wright Whirlwind that weighed 5200 pounds, carried 450 gallons of gasoline, developed 220 horsepower and cruised at about 100 miles an hour.

THEY HAVE been Piper Pacers weighing less than 1,000 pounds, with wing spans of only 29 feet and powered by 125 horsepower Lycoming engines. These however, he flies over what he calls "the easy route," via Greenland and Iceland involving hops of 900 miles. One flight in particular however, was almost a dead ringer for it, although not designedly so.

Robert Goemans a private flying enthusiast of Paris, ordered a Piper Apache, and partly for the novelty of it wanted it flown non-stop over the Lindbergh route provided it could be done without too much risk to Conrad's life and limb.

Goemans' Apache, like Lindbergh's beloved Spirit of St. Louis which has been so widely reintroduced to the American public through the movie starring Jimmy Stewart in the role of the Lone Eagle, is a twin-engine craft with a cut of jib like the historic Lindbergh plane.

Loaded with special tanks occupying every available square foot in the cockpit, it weighed almost the same—5,000 pounds.

A perfectionist like Lindbergh Conrad virtually slept with the

Something New Sought To Give Economy Boost

Prosperity Boom Showing Signs Now Of Beginning To Sag

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Wanted: something new to give the economy a boost.

The long business boom is showing signs of getting tired. But each time since World War II that it has slowed down something has shown up to boost it to a new level.

Businessmen wish they could sight something new on the horizon now. Immediately after the war there was the big pentup demand for consumer goods. It took a few years to fill all these desires and business boomed during the process.

Then, just when industrial activity was turning down, there was a sudden spurge of defense spending as the United States re-armed to fight the Korean War and prepare itself to meet any Communist threat.

The peak of defense spending passed and cutbacks in defense orders sent industry downhill for a time.

But along came the sudden consumer spending spree of 1955. Savings were drawn down and credit totals were built up to record highs. Business boomed while it turned out all the big ticket items Americans wanted to buy, whether for cash or on the cuff.

This spree ran its course. Consumer spending has stayed high but such increase as it shows now is largely a matter of higher prices, and industrial durable goods aren't what the public is seeking the most to buy.

But in turn the consumer spending spree was succeeded by a record expansion in business spending for capital goods last year and this. The economy has been boosted once again to new heights.

Now this spending for new plants and equipment shows signs of topping out, with a decline believed likely next year.

Most of the business statistics are high — if you close your eyes to the part that inflated prices play. But what is there to send them higher?

Nebraska Ranch Woman Answers 2 Calls to Capital

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eva Bowring says if she could live selfishly she'd stay in her "home meadow" in Cherry County, Neb., rock on her porch and run her Bar 99 Ranch.

"But, we can't just live for ourselves," she says, "and citizens owe something to their country."

Twice Mrs. Bowring has come to Washington to serve. From April to November 1954 she was a member of the United States Senate, filling out the unexpired term of the late Sen. Dwight P. Griswold (R-Neb.). She had no desire thereafter to run for a full term. However, she returned to the capital in November 1956 to serve as the only woman member on the U. S. Board of Paroles.

There were other considerations besides patriotism which promoted her to accept the last appointment. "I felt it would be a way of showing my appreciation of the fact that I had raised three sons who behaved themselves if I could help those who had misbehaved," she told me.

The job also presented a real challenge, she added. "I wouldn't have accepted otherwise. There are too many interesting things I want to do."

She has run the 7,000-acre ranch single-handedly since Art Bowring's death in 1944. Her sons by her first husband, who died in 1924, she guesses had "too much town in them," and like the ranch only as a place to visit. Visit they do frequently and with five grandchildren make the comfortable six bedroom ranch house, which she also takes care of all by herself, ring with gaiety.

The colorful, energetic ranch woman, who looks much younger than her 63 years, has been too busy with her government job to get back to the Bar 99 the past year as much as she'd have liked. Members of the parole board go quarterly to each of the federal institutions assigned to them where inmates have made application for paroles. They go through the individual's files, visit with him, review his case, make recommendations. Between 30 and 40 per cent of federal prisoners eventually get out on parole, though not always on the first application, Mrs. Bowring says, and the majority will get along all right. There are times, she says, when she has to refuse an application on the basis of the inmate's prison conduct.

"LITTLE BIG INCH" GOES BACK TO SERVICE as petroleum products pipeline

Texas Eastern's "Little Big Inch" (20-inch) pipeline is returning to the vital job it did during World War II... the efficient, economical transportation of clean petroleum products.

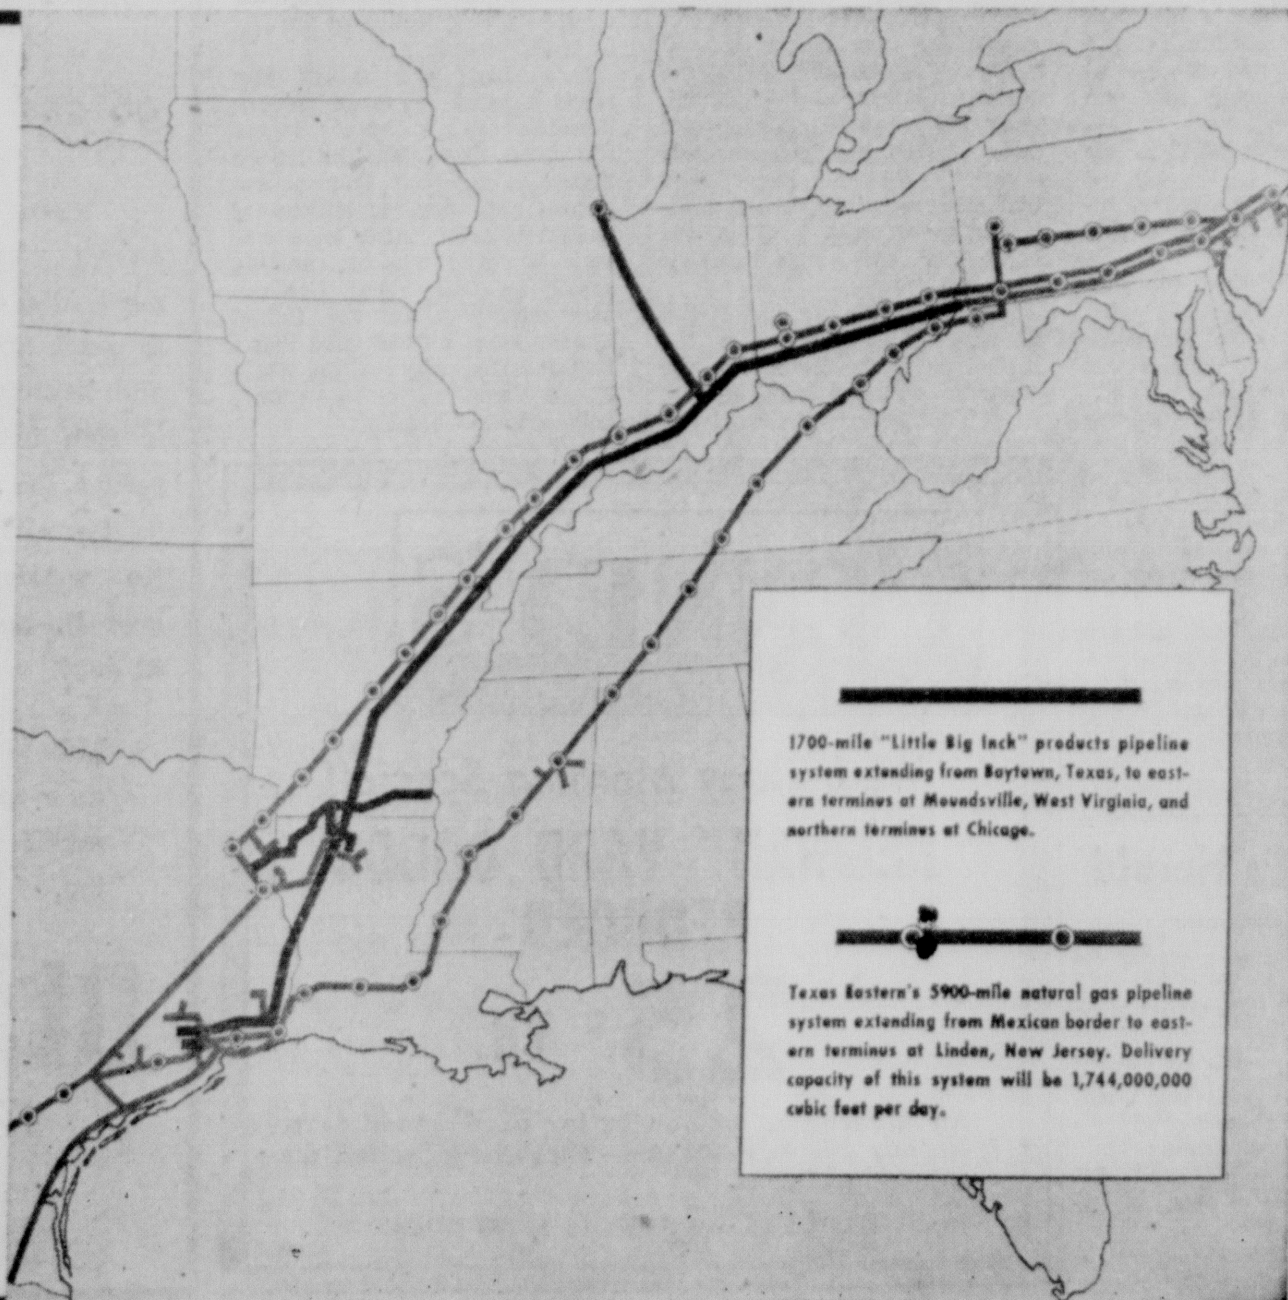

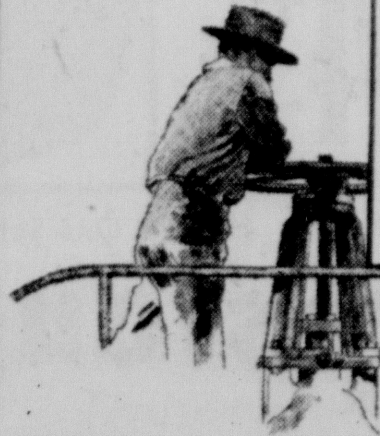

Eleven hundred and sixty-eight miles of the "Little Big Inch" from Baytown, Texas, to Moundsville, West Virginia, is being reconverted from natural gas transmission to the original service for which it was built. This portion of the line is to become part of a 1700-mile system that will include a 230-mile (14-inch) lateral from Seymour, Indiana, to Chicago, now nearing completion.

The new "Little Big Inch" system will be the longest large diameter common carrier of petroleum products in the United States. It will connect the world's largest refining capacity (refineries in the Gulf Coast, East Texas, North Louisiana, South Arkansas and Mid-Continent areas) with markets in 13 Midwestern and Southern states.

The "Little Big Inch" system will deliver all grades of aviation and motor gasoline, kerosene, heating oils, diesel and jet engine fuels, and liquefied butane and propane... and do it regularly, on schedule regardless of weather, and at a substantial saving over other transportation methods.

New facilities will assure continuing deliveries of supplies of natural gas to all of Texas Eastern's customers who are presently being served through the "Little Big Inch" pipeline system. In addition, new construction will increase the delivery capacity of Texas Eastern's 5900-mile natural gas transmission system to over 1,744,000,000 cubic feet per day by year end.

Business Boom Due Soon

A decline of employment in the United States of 800,000 during August merits attention because it is more than seasonal. It follows total employment of 67.2 million in July, which was the record high.

Not only is American attention focused on the domestic economy but the whole world is concerned. The United States is the cornerstone of the world economy because of the efficient example it affords and because its aid and assistance programs are looked forward to by many nations.

The United States has not escaped the current world economic problem, which is inflation. Fortunately for the future health of the nation, the government has adopted the policy that inflation must be checked. Broad moves have been made to do so, chiefly in the area of credit control. These moves have already taken the edge off the boom.

Economists seem to agree that the nation will be in an economic pause for a few months until essential readjustments are made. During that period unemployment will not be allowed to become critical. At the same time that the government is stretching out some of its military procurement programs, it is also stimulating employment through public works such as the highway program.

Most analysts are looking to next year as a period of renewed vigor. Many of the weak spots will be sloughed off by that time. And 1958 will be a campaign year. Before much of 1958 has passed, there will be moves by the government to get the boom going again.

Airlines Dock 'No-Shows'

Regularly scheduled commercial airlines commenced charging passengers who fail to claim or cancel reservations before flight time a standard $3 penalty.

This action has been taken with the approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board. The purpose is to stop one of the most nagging problems for the airlines, the "no-show" passenger.

The penalty will be charged when the passenger's ticket is presented for redemption or for passage on a later flight. A reneging holder of an air travel credit card will find the penalty added to his bill.

The airlines hope this will be an answer to what their surveys have found is the most frequent gripe of airline passengers: "Why do I sometimes have great difficulty in making a reservation only to find many empty seats on the plane when it takes off?"

The airlines complain that some passengers have been making a practice of reserving seats on four or five different flights, knowing they will use only one.

Rumor has it that bell captains and other hotel employees on the Miami-New York run, for instance, have established a flourishing black market in air seat reservations available to the highest bidder in the peak of the season, when passage either way is difficult to obtain.

The "no-show" is bound to bring some outraged bellows from those assessed. Presumably the airlines are willing to make a few of the "no-show" fellows mad if this results in making it easier for others to obtain reservations.

Churches, Reds Get Along

By Hal Boyle

By CARL HARTMAN
(For Hal Boyle)

BUDAPEST (AP)—Thousands of Communist Hungary's children have registered for regular school classes in religion, including many whose parents did not dare let them appear before last fall's revolt.

The regime of Premier Janos Kadar, like all Communist regimes, is anti-religious in principle. But in Hungary, as in Poland, the Communists and churches seem to be finding ways to get along.

In Hungary, a decree was issued that the registration should be neither encouraged nor hindered. As in the past, two 50-minute classes are given weekly, either before or after regular school hours. Priests, pastors and rabbis do the teaching in the classrooms and are paid for it by the state.

Accompanied by a government representative, I visited three Budapest schools. In each I was told that registration for the classes in religion was three times what it was last year. A big majority of the children registered were Roman Catholic, as is well over half the country's population.

The education ministry said it had no over-all registration figures for this year yet, and it would not make last year's figures available.

Principal Miklos Tavaszi at the Krisztina Square General School in Budapest explained that a year ago representatives of Communist women's organizations were present and discouraged mothers from registering their children. This is not happening now, he said. He predicted that, as a result, more than 200 of his 586 pupils would register, instead of the 66 who did so last year.

Hoover Issues Red Warning

By George Sokolsky

J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI is warning the country that we are becoming dangerously complacent about Communist activities in the United States. Of course, the number of party members has been reduced to a bare minimum, not only by the resignation of opportunists and time-servers, but also by a shift of confirmed and believing Marxists to related movements and by the hard core of obedient agents of the Kremlin who have gone underground. Some of these are now operating out of Mexico.

The FBI is more familiar with the details of this situation than any private citizen can be, for it is obvious from court trials and Congressional committee hearings that the FBI has infiltrated this movement and is able to have detailed reports on its activities from the inside.

On the other hand, it has become a phase of party propaganda, as anyone who reads the "Daily Worker" can see, to minimize the importance of the party in the United States, to give figures showing how the party has lost members, is poverty-stricken and is about to collapse.

To this, J. Edgar Hoover replied at the American Legion convention:

"...The FBI investigations have shown that there is a hard core of conspiratorial Reds unaffected by party differences and controlled by the heavy hand of Moscow. As long as this undercover 'apparatus' exists, the Communist threat cannot be brushed aside as trivial or fanciful. It is a continuing, aggressive force constantly at work to subvert and subvert the American people."

But much more significant are his references to those sentimental and maudlin organizations which refuse to recognize the danger of Communist activity which in the 1930's was devoted largely to propaganda, in the 1940's to infiltration, but today is an espionage and sabotage apparatus of fearful dimensions.

Hoover said this:

"...The influence of the subversive conspiracy has been almost unbelievable — reaching deep into practically every walk of life. To gauge the effectiveness of this campaign, we need only to note the widespread and vociferous clamor raised whenever our government attempts to deal firmly in self-defense against the subversive threat.

"Certain organizations obviously dedicate their efforts to thwart the very concepts of security. They vehemently oppose methods to gain this security and it is obvious that their aim is to destroy it. They protest that they are fighting for freedom, but in reality, they seek license. They hypocritically bar Communists from their membership, but they seem to hate all persons who abhor Communists and Communism.

"They claim to be anti-Communist but they launch attacks against Congressional legislation designed to curb Communism. They distort and misrepresent and ridicule the government's security program. They lobby and exert pressure on the leaders of government both in the legislative and executive branches."

One might assume that J. Edgar Hoover is referring to the A.D.A. or to the Fund for the Republic, although in his speech, he did not itemize the organizations which he denounces so vehemently. Nevertheless, he does call attention to the fact that "some such organizations are supported by tax-exempt funds" which points a very sharp finger in a specific direction.

It is significant that the Director of the FBI chose the American Legion convention for this speech, because in recent years the American Legion has been one of the most aggressive organizations in its fight on Communism and has been violently attacked by the Fund for the Republic particularly in relation to the Legion's efforts to drive Communism out of Hollywood. J. Edgar Hoover, in effect, told the Legion that the fight is by no means over and that it should go on with its work. He said:

"...The recent campaign to throw open the files of the FBI is a case in point. The bland refusal to recognize the right of the public welfare and the proper use of common sense result too often in a prostitution of the law in favor of evil."

In a sense, this speech also reads a lesson to those Modern Republicans who have adopted the thesis that while the United States is fighting Communism abroad and spending billions of dollars in preparation for a war with Soviet Russia, nothing should be done about Communist activity within the United States. It was upon this thesis that Joe McCarthy and the White House came to blows, ending only with his death.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE PILOT of a tiny private airplane made an emergency landing on a broad turnpike. The only car in sight swerved off onto a shoulder of the road as the plane glided in. The pilot got out of the plane, and the car driver, closely followed by his wife, made a simultaneous exit. "I'm terribly sorry," began the pilot, but the lady interrupted with, "Don't be sorry, mister. We'll get out of your way in a jiffy if you'll tell us how. Only this fool husband of mine could start driving to Philadelphia and wind up in the middle of an airport!"

There were just as many darn fool drivers 70 years ago as there are now, observes Joe E. Brown—but horses had more sense.

Wee Bobbie came home from a movie about William the Conqueror, explained to his ma, "It's all about those English Anglo-Saxophones."

Many Ways To Test Hearing

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

You mothers are in a better position than anyone else to detect early signs of loss of hearing in your children. You are with them more than Dad or any other member of the family and you are more familiar with their reactions.

If your tot responds less readily to speech or to simple sounds than your other children did at the same age, then be alert for other signals indicating hearing difficulties.

You don't have to wait until the youngster is old enough to talk to test his hearing.

Here are a few ways it can be done at different ages.

You can test the hearing of an infant between the ages of 10 days and three months with a sound instrument such as a drum, a tom-tom, cowbell or pitch pipe. This test should be made when the baby is awake or in a light sleep. Be sure not to do it when he is crying.

Usually a child who is able to hear these noises will blink his eyes, cry or move suddenly. Also, he will probably cease his activities momentarily as he stops to listen.

Routine testing of the Moro Reflex can be used on babies from three to four months of age.

If the child's hearing is good, a sudden loud noise probably will cause him to throw out both arms and bring them back toward each other jerkily, with fingers first fanned out and then clenched.

Youngsters between four and six months respond better in testing situations to the human voice, especially one which is quiet and familiar. If a child's hearing is normal, simply speaking to him in a normal voice will cause him to turn his head.

Between the ages of six months and one year, a child with normal hearing will recognize sounds which mean something to him. His own babbling will become more varied and significant.

From one year to the age of two, a youngster with good hearing ability will begin to understand more words and to speak a few of them.

After the age of two, you can test a child's hearing by speaking behind his back or by making other sounds out of his sight.

For these tests it's a good idea to pick a wide range of sounds.

The World Today

By James Marlow

By ED CREAUGH
For James Marlow
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Look at their faces, and shudder.

You don't need to have been in Little Rock Monday. The news pictures give you the horror of the scene.

The faces: Hate-gnarled features, twisted by passions as old as mankind. Thin-lipped, squint-eyed faces. The "Give it to the black" grimace. And "Let's you and him fight" look.

Stunned, anxious faces. The gasp of "Can this really be happening?" Like the one of the white schoolgirl being led away by a sobbing older woman. The blonde girl's hand half-shields contorted lips and eyes.

And the numb look — terror? Resignation?—of the Negro newsman being kicked in the chest by a white man clutching a half brick.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 23, 1957. A day to haunt men's consciences. A day for reappraisal. The nation has known worse disorders. But this one had a special, chilling quality. The eyes of the world were on Little Rock. And they saw mob violence triumphant.

Police lines held, but the shrieking, surging crowd had its way. Nine Negro teen-agers who attended Central High School for a few hours were spirited out of the building for their own protection. Who can say where lies the blame for the ugliness of the scene?

Was it with the raging segregationists? Or were they justified in their consciences for pitting force against law in a desperate effort to save a way of life?

Was it with the Supreme Court, which ordered integration? With the "Yankee" judge from North Dakota who ordered it started in Little Rock without further delay?

With President Eisenhower? Should he have taken a stronger stand before the violence developed?

With the Little Rock authorities, who gave assurance they could cope with any disorders?

With the Negroes? Did they press too hard, too fast?

With public sentiment in Little Rock, and in much of the South?

Was Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus right after all when he called out the National Guard three weeks ago to stop integration and, as he said, to head off violence? Or did his action only apply the spark to a powder keg?

You can search long and far for that order.

a villain in this tragedy, right back to the first slave trader who brought the first Negroes to America.

But the search would waste time that could better be spent in looking for a hero — someone who can point a way out of this mess.

Inevitably, the search starts at Newport, R.I.

President Eisenhower, vacationing there, pledged Monday that "the full power of the United States—including whatever force may be necessary"—will be used to enforce the law in Little Rock.

He followed that up with a formal proclamation commanding "all persons engaged in such obstruction of justice to cease and desist therefrom and to disperse forthwith."

That cleared the way under the law for him to call out either the National Guard or federal troops to enforce the law and suppress rebellion. It did not necessarily mean the troops will be called out, and Eisenhower did not say what other steps he might have in mind.

He did say, as he has said before, that he is confident the people of Arkansas "will respect the law and will not countenance violations of law and order by extremists."

The people of Little Rock can't erase the hatred and bitterness already portrayed. Perhaps they can prevent another eruption of mob violence. If they can't, it's up to Faubus and Eisenhower in that order.

Latest unidentified flying object, which was reported sighted by numerous London, England, residents, is described as resembling a cigar. Next thing you know someone's liable to spot a flying ashray.

Use instruments with various pitches, such as a drum or tom-tom for the low tones and a whistle for the high ones.

A piano or violin might give you a fair idea of the youngster's hearing range. A radio also might provide an indication of hearing acuity.

Answer: Trachoma, virus disease of the eye, is a difficult disease to treat. However, it has been found that cortisone is very helpful.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 16. Recently my parents went away for a weekend, leaving me in charge of my brother, 10 and my sister 12.

On Saturday evening my sister went to spend the night at a girl friend's house. I went for a walk and met a boy whom I have dated a few times. I invited him back to the house for a snack and we watched TV and talked.

Suddenly I became very ill with an upset stomach and he went to the store for medicine. When I didn't improve he offered to spend the night, and called his parents to tell them. I was ill through the night and know that he didn't get much sleep on the living room couch.

Next morning he telephoned my girl friend, then went home. When my parents returned I explained what happened; and when mother heard that Joe had spent the night she ranted for an hour about imprudence and my reputation. She then called Joe and soundly told him off.

Now I can't date him any more; and I've received other punishment, even though I told mother he was very kind and we did nothing wrong. Is she being fair or understanding?

K.D.: This is an odd story. In spots, it taxes credulity—as, for example when you say that Joe telephoned his parents after you fell sick to tell them where and why, he was spending the night.

Such a phone call in those circumstances suggests that Joe is a dutiful son; and the good son usually denotes right-minded parents who've brought him up responsibly.

Thus it is all the more difficult to believe that good parents of a nice boy would leave him in charge of this type of emergency. I rather think they would have hauled him home on the double-quick, as a matter of moral propriety, when and if briefed on the situation. And would have engineered other arrangements for your overnight care—provided such Samaritanism seemed warranted.

However I'm willing to take your recital at face value, just on the chance that such a hassle did transpire, and that the foregoing is your concept of what happened. Maybe Joe wasn't fully frank with his parents as to the name and gender of his sick friend possibly due to a frightened guilt sense, that reflected your own conspiratorial attitude.

In any case, it strikes me that you were in search of adventure (if not mischief) when you went out for a walk Saturday night and fetched Joe back to the house for a snack and TV session.

The stomach upset likely was caused by emotional conflict and nervous tension—churned up by inner struggle between (1) wanting to do wrong in your parents' absence, and (2) dreading the costs. Possibly you were trying to play temptress, trying to break down Joe's resistance when panic-sickness struck.

Or maybe it was the other way around. Maybe Joe was willing to take advantage of the situation and you were suddenly terrified by the danger you'd invited. Possibly that's why he felt obliged to rush out for medicine, and stay on the premises to assuage your hysteria, until morning.

As for your mother's angry agitation and lecturing of you and Joe, it is an understandable anxiety reaction. She feels that you should have known better than to pursue the particular course of action described; and in fact, you should. Also she is concerned about your reputation—which may protect a girl, or drag her down. And she suffers some unadmitted self-reproach, at having left you unsupervised hence a prey to folly, it seems.

It is beside the point to ask—Is she being fair or understanding? You aren't exactly an injured innocent in the dispute. You misbehaved—in the spirit if not in the letter. It is just luck that things weren't worse. So take your penalty, and stop complaining.

M. H. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Television's Busiest Teacher Chides Critics as 'Unfair'

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Frank Baxter, television's busiest teacher, feels a lot of current criticism of TV is unfair.

"There is a tendency too often to criticize something on the air not for what it is, but because it is not what someone expected it to be," he asserts.

"As for people who boast they don't look at television—that's like saying they won't go to see 'Hamlet' because the theater also includes things like strip-tease."

The solution, says the eminent educator, is "selective viewing." The University of Southern California professor first rocketed to attention by parlaying Shakespeare into parlor excitement.

Ideas and images tumble endlessly in his conversational enthusiasm. Now he is embarked on his "saturation season" of exposure on the networks.

"I've had to cut down on other work, such as personal appearances," he says.

One thing he won't give up is university work—"first and last I am a teacher."

The Baxter agenda includes this season: Tuesday night ABC network appearances as mentor of a new dramatic series; four "Dr. Research" 90-minute film programs on NBC; a weekly live half-hour colorcast in Los Angeles called "Harvest" that lets him range across human enterprise from Hadrian's wall to Rodin's art.

In addition three of his previous conversation series are being used on the 23-station cross-country educational network. All this plus 10 hours weekly of classroom work.

"Many more people hunger for a little more knowledge than is usually thought," he says.

"I'd like to be thought of as a man who fumbled toward persuading the networks and people that there can be fun in this field of activity."

Baxter, who is 62 and has but three more years of university activity before retirement, is bursting with other ideas for further TV pioneering.

Most of all, he would like to embark on a roving expedition that would take him to the banks of the Mississippi for reading of Mark Twain, to Walden Pond for study of Thoreau, to a Wessex village for examination of Hardy novels.

"It would be no travelogue," he explains, "but would instill a sense of how these things, these heritages of us all, grew out of the dust of a very particular place."

Hollywood Changes; New Star Poses for No 'Cheesecake'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — My, how Hollywood has changed!

There was a time—not too long ago—when any gorgeous blonde who came to Hollywood for a starring role would be whisked into the photo gallery for a hot session of cheesecake. The photos would be broadcast throughout the world together with breathy sayings by the blonde on such matters as sex, world politics and sex.

But now look what has happened to Gena Rowlands.

She hasn't been asked to pose for leg art though she's got admirable legs. She hasn't been photographed in a bathing suit, though she fills one very well. Not a word has been said to her about cheesecake.

Gena (rhymes with henna; real name: Virginia) is a new kind of movie blonde. She can act. She proved it on Broadway for a year and a half as the young sweetheart of Edward G. Robinson in "Middle of the Night." MGM latched onto her for movies but she came on her own terms—two pictures a year only.

"That's the only way I would work in Hollywood," she explained. "I had offers before, but they were always for term contracts and I couldn't see tying myself down. I'm married and I think it's important for a husband and wife to spend as much time together as they can. This business of being apart for 8 or 10 months is no way to have a marriage."

Her husband is John Cassavetes, the bright young actor, and he is tied up to MGM for one picture a year. He and Gena try to set up their schedules so they're working in the same place.

Right now they're not. She is making "Bay The Moon" here. He is on a movie in the Virgin Islands.

"But the moment I'm through I'll join him," she said. "Then we'll go to London, where he'll finish up his picture and we'll tour Europe together."

Gena is the lovely product of the hamlet of Cambria, Wis., the daughter of a onetime Wisconsin state senator who now is in oil in Houston, Tex. She started studying drama early, took three years at the University of Wisconsin headed for New York and the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. Another student there was John Cassavetes.

Gena had done some theater work—touring with Melvin Douglas in "Time Out For Ginger," playing a dream-girl vamp in "The Seven Year Itch," etc. But her big break came because of television.

Josh Logan caught her in a dramatic show (with her husband) on Television Playhouse, tagged her for the role opposite Robinson in "Middle of the Night."

DESPERATE DRAFT

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Edwin C. Bearrs, historian at Vicksburg National Military Park and avid researcher, has turned up another Civil War story, this one about the Confederate manpower shortage of 1864.

The story, found in a diary, tells about Gen. Jubal Early who was attending church services near Lexington, Va.

The fire-and-brimstone preacher posed this question to his congregation: "What would you do if you saw your dead come marching back by the hundreds and thousands?"

During the pause that followed, Gen. Early whispered to an aide: "Conscript every damned one of them."

Who took the moon home last year? How many boxes of crystals will we need for the floor? Where do we get the corn fodder and who has the colored lights? Strange questions! No, just the usual ones at this time of year for member of Circleville Junior Woman's Club, busy planning their annual Harvest Ball. Always a problem for the club members is storing the large Harvest moon which shines just one night a year at the dance and must find a clean, dry resting place for the remainder of the year.

In charge of finding the moon and solving all of the other problems which go with sponsoring the Harvest Ball, on October 5, is Mrs. Harry Turner who is serving as General Chairman. Other members of the arrangements committee are Mrs. Joe Drake, Mrs. Ted Wolfe and Mrs. Larry Curl.

Music for the Harvest Ball will be furnished again this year by Dick Welch and his orchestra. Mrs. Turner has also stressed that there will be four hours of dancing again this year with the dance beginning at 9 p. m. and lasting until one o'clock. The dance will be held in Memorial Hall.

Funds from the dance are used each year for the club's youth program which includes an annual $300.00 scholarship awarded to an outstanding future teacher or nurse graduating from a Pickaway County High School. Miss Carolyn Stout of Ashville was the winner of the scholarship in 1957.

Pickaway County Assn. Women's Clubs to Meet

'From Martha to Mamie' Is The Topic of Club Paper

Mrs. Stevenson
Reads Paper

"From Martha to Mamie" was the title of Mrs. Howard N. Stevenson's paper which she presented before Monday Club last night when members met in regular session in the Trustees Room of Memorial Hall at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Stevenson began her talk by reminding her audience that: "So much has been written of the Presidents of these United States that most people overlook the stories of their illustrious wives who have so greatly influenced history and set the social standards of our private lives."

"There were women of the gentry and women of the frontier; domestic women and intellectual women; sheltered and unsheltered women; popular women and women hardly known to their own times. Yet each illustrates some phase of the history of the United States."

Mrs. Stevenson pleased her listeners by recalling a number of striking pictures which included: Abigail Adams hanging up the wash in the great barn of an East Room; Dolly Madison in one of her expensive turbans wanting to stay and shoot it out with the British; the house all new and white again, ready for the formal entertaining of the Monroes for whose parties one must be correctly garbed.

General Jackson leaves a stormy portrait as well as an amusing one with his "Kitchen Cabinet" coming in the back doors. Laughter rang through the halls when the beautiful Harriet Lane held court for her uncle, James Buchanan.

In concluding Mrs. Stevenson said, "A new White House was made for Teddy Roosevelt, a new room for quiet Cal Coolidge, a new deal for F.D.R. and a completely remodeled White House for Truman that is now occupied by president Eisenhower and the First Lady, Mamie Eisenhower; and with it all the White House is still there, still gracious, still representative of the finest that America stands for, still the house with a more distinctive personality than any other house in the United States, and always presided over by our always gracious "Ladies of the White House."

Mrs. Barton Deming presided at the business session which preceded Mrs. Stevenson's paper. She asked for volunteers to help with the processing of Christmas seals on Label Day, Oct. 2 in St. Philip's Parish House.

Mrs. Deming appointed Miss Mary Katherine May to serve as chairman of the Ohioana Library Calendars which are now available for sale.

Fame, Glory Finally Come To Milwaukee

Braves Clip Cardinals To Win NL Pennant; Yanks Win Again in AL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Milwaukee's long badgered Braves finally did it!

And they did it big, these "choke up" Braves, snatching a 4-2 victory in the 11th inning Monday night from second-place St. Louis, the one club they had to beat. Hank Aaron's two-run, two-out homer was the blow that wrapped up the National League pennant and set up a World Series date with the New York Yankees.

Almost overlooked was the fact that the Braves, who slumped and lagged after gaining a whopping 8½-game lead on Labor Day, built a seven-game winning streak under pressure to nail their first pennant since 1948.

At the clinching, they had a six-game bulge with five to play.

The Yankees made it while most of the Bombers were taking a busman's holiday at Yankee Stadium—watching the middleweight championship fight while the Kansas City Athletics eliminated Chicago's White Sox 6-5.

That defeat left the White Sox 6½ games behind with six to play.

It was Aaron who set the pace for the Braves' comeback from a worrisome, 11-game batting slump in which their lead over the Cards was whittled to 2½. Aaron batted only .220 (9 for 41) in that mess, but started a nine-game streak that included a .500 spurt (14 for 28) in the Braves' seven straight victories.

The homer was Henry's 43rd, regaining the major league lead from Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs. It followed a single by Johnny Logan sandwiched between a pair of flies by Red Schoendienst and Eddie Mathews off relief loser Billy Muffett.

A single by Schoendienst, the ex-Card, and a double by Mathews gave the Braves a 2-1 tie in the seventh against Larry Jackson, the Cards' second pitcher. Jackson, who relieved starter Wilmer Mizell with the bases loaded, none out and a run home in the second and got out of the jam, had been staked to a 2-1 lead in the sixth as Al Dark tagged Lew Burdette for a two-run single.

Burdette was lifted in the 10th for a pinch hitter, Gene Conley took over for a hitless 11th, winning his ninth in 18 decisions.

Oddly, it was St. Louis that threw a block to Milwaukee's 1956 pennant bid, beating the Braves on the next to last day of the race.

While the Braves were gaining their first pennant since shifting from Boston to Milwaukee in 1953, the Yankees were winning their eighth in nine years under Manager Casey Stengel.

A pair of ex-Yankees did it for the A's. Bob Cerv got the tie-breaking run home with a sacrifice fly in the eighth after Minnie Minoos, who homered for Chicago's first run, brought the White Sox even with a two-run single in the seventh. Woody Held, another ex-Yank, Alex Kellner and Gus Zernial also homered for the A's.

Jim McDonald was the loser in relief, with Arnie Portocarrero the winner, also in relief.

In the other AL games, Boston whipped Washington 9-4 and Cleveland tripped Detroit 5-4 in 11 innings. Ted Williams was 1-for-1 for the Red Sox upping his AL-leading average to .385 and padding his string of trips to the plate without being retired to 16. He walked three times, was hit by a pitch on his last trip.

Cardinal Stan Musial was 3-for-4 pushing his NL-leading bat mark to 349.

A single by rookie Dick Brown, his third hit, won it for the Tribe. Brown also homered, along with Roger Maris and Rocky Colavito. No other games were scheduled.

Tiger Gridders Preparing For Wilmington Loop Opener

Circleville's grid Tigers resume football action Friday night when they travel to Wilmington for a South Central Ohio League contest with the Hurricanes.

The contest will mark the opening league game for both teams. While the Tigers have dropped both their games so far, the Hurricanes have fared a little better, winning their opener, 35-12, over Franklin and dropping their second, 13-6, to Lebanon.

Circleville will be striving to rack up its first score and first win of the season. The Tigers lost the season opener at Athens, 19-0, and dropped a hard-fought 12-0 decision to Chillicothe last week.

Last year the Tigers battled Wilmington to a 6-6 deadlock, but the Hurricanes went on to capture the league title.

Troutman, Skinner Top Cap Threats

Don Skinner and George Troutman, former Circleville High School grid stars, are two of several veteran footballers on this year's Capital University squad.

Skinner, a three-year regular end on the Cap squad, will captain the Lutherans this season. Troutman, 263-pound fullback for the last three years, has been switched to center where he is doing a capable job according to Coach Jack Landrum.

Skinner's specialty last year was blocking punts in addition to being a top pass receiver and extra point kicker. Cap coaches also report that he is an excellent offensive blocker.

Troutman, formerly a blocking fullback, has been switched to center to bolster the middle of the Cap line. Chances are that the CHS graduate could be moved back to fullback if Coach Landrum needs strength at that position during the season.

SKINNER appeared on Earl Flora's TV sports show last night for an interview. Captain Skinner's appearance centered around answering questions concerning this year's grid outlook at Capital.

The Lutherans' first game is set for September 28 with the Wildcats of Northern Michigan.

Ever-Pressing Tactics Win Middle Title for Basilio

NEW YORK —Indestructible Carmen Basilio reigned as middleweight champion of the world today while dejected, dethroned Sugar Ray Robinson pondered whether to end his fabulous ring career for good.

The ever-pressing ex-Marine from Chittanooga, N. Y., moved up from the welterweight throne Monday night by gaining a split decision in 15 bloody and thrilling rounds over the 37-year-old Sugar Ray at Yankee Stadium.

Robinson, who won the 160-pound title four times, has a contract for a return bout within 90 days. He indicated that he might hang up the gloves for the second time in his 17-year career, but the betting was that he would be back next June for another helping of the $500,000 pie he collected Monday night.

Women Open Pin Season

The local Ladies Matinee league which is affiliated with the Women's International Bowling Congress and the Lancaster Women's Bowling Assn., will begin its fourth season at the Circle D alleys here at 1 p. m. Wednesday. Teams for the 1957-58 season are:

Drenan O. 1—Bobbie Horning, Billie Sisco, Pauline Measner, Maybelle Huffer, Norma Drenan, Plum No. 2—Gloria Fisher, Jean Grant, Eleanor Flieri, Kit Carlson, Jane Plum.

S. O'Hara No. 3—Vi Ridlon, Bobbie Canning, Helen Hull, Mary Carpenter, Stelle O'Hara.

J. O'Hara No. 4—Anne Eddy, Wilma McGregor, Peg Clark, Betty Trecker, Jean O'Hara. Young No. 5—Sunny Payne, Helen McGuire, Clara Burton, Betty Plummer, Betty Young. Miller No. 6—Catherine Reynolds, Neal Ellis, Wanda Matesky, Betty Reinhard, Lorene Miller.

The group voted to follow a schedule calling for 30 weeks of bowling. The season will end May 7, 1958.

time in his 17-year career, but the betting was that he would be back next June for another helping of the $500,000 pie he collected Monday night.

"I don't know whether I'll ever fight again," he said in his dressing room. "There are things about boxing I don't like. There is too much intrigue. I had to battle for everything I got in this fight. I'll decide in a few days whether I'll fight Basilio again."

About the split verdict, which saw the two judges voting for Basilio and the referee for Robinson, Sugar Ray said, "I have no squawks."

Basilio, 30, who was cut over the left eye in the fourth round and bled from the nose, said jubilantly, "I won it without question. I forced the fight and got in the most punches."

It was a see-saw fight which could have gone either way.

Judge Artie Aidala had it 9-5-1 in rounds for Basilio. Judge Bill Recht made it 9-6-1 for Basilio while Referee Al Berl cast the dissenting vote for Robinson, 9-6. The AP scorecard had it even, 6-6-3.

Robinson, snapping his jab with precision and force, reddened Carmen's face, drew blood from his nose, and kept his lighter foe off during the early rounds.

Basilio, weighing the heaviest of his career at 153½ pounds to Robinson's 160, came on to break through Robinson's defenses to sweep the 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th rounds. He staggered the big man in the 10th and 11th rounds, clobbering him with a 12-punch volley in the 11th.

That seemed to be it for Robinson. His legs appeared ready to fold under him. But in the 12th, with blood trickling from his nose, he found a hidden reservoir of strength.

He took command again with his jabbing left jab in the 12th and in the 13th he staggered his blood-smeared rival with a left hook to the jaw seconds before the bell.

In the 14th, Ray doubled Carmen over with a stunning right hand to the pit of the stomach but again Basilio, never stopped in his career, refused to fold.

His cheeks swollen, blood dripping from the cut over his left eye and his nose, Carmen drove doggedly on in the 15th to win that crucial final round with his aggressive tactics and body bashing.

The ring-scarred gamester thus duplicated Robinson's hitherto unprecedented feat of winning the middleweight title while holding the welterweight crown. He'll have to give up the lighter title,

Tribe Attendance Hits 12-Year Low

CLEVELAND — A crowd of 3,021 saw the Cleveland Indians beat the Detroit Tigers 5-4 in 11 innings Monday night in the final home game of the season.

It brought the total home attendance to 722,256, lowest since 1945 when it was 558,182.

With the end of World War II the annual attendance rose over a million for 10 seasons from 1946 to 1955 reaching the record of 2,620,627 in the championship year of 1948. The pennant-winning team of 1954 drew 1,335,472.

Last year attendance fell to 865,467 and this year's total was 143,211 under that.

Biggest Disaster Problem: People Who Flock to Them

WASHINGTON (AP)—Are you one of the people who make a bee-line for the scene of disaster? Well, don't.

A couple of researchers for the National Academy of Sciences said Saturday that one of the major problems created by tornadoes, floods, explosions and other calamities is the people who flock around.

They've written a book about it with the jaw-breaking title of "Convergence Behavior in Disasters—A Problem in Social Control."

What they are talking about is made clear enough, though, by a few examples. Here is their description of the traffic moving toward the scene of a tornado that struck in White County Ark., in 1952.

"Cars were lined bumper to bumper for 10 miles on either side of Judsonia. Eighty per cent of the State Patrol was used to un-snarl the jam."

Similarly, they say, a "sky-traffic jam" was reported over the rubble of Waco Tex. tornado of 1953 with "airplanes buzzing over the ruins like buzzards."

Their study undertaken at the request of the surgeons general of the armed forces, was concerned not only with natural disasters but with disasters that might arise from enemy action.

Publication of the book was announced by the National Academy of Sciences. Charles E. Fritz, research associate of its committee on disaster studies, and J. H. Mathewson assistant director of the Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering at the University of California, are the authors.

They said their findings were based on a detailed study of a large number of major disasters. They said, is that the major disaster problem is the control of a panicky population when actually, disaster victims are "normally passive cooperative and subject to control."

"The major problem of control and the major hindrance to organized relief efforts," they write, "usually arises from the convergence of thousands of anxiety-motivated and occasionally gain-motivated persons who enter the disaster-struck area from the outside."

They also note that "convergence behavior" is not limited to the swarming of people toward a disaster area.

In virtually every disaster, they say, telephone exchanges, telegraph office and other communications centers are quickly swamped with incoming messages from relatives and friends in other areas.

And sometimes their book says, "the convergence of material" can create serious problems when well-meaning people overdo it in responding to appeals for used clothing.

They cite one instance in which "500 volunteer workers were occupied two weeks in sorting out the 60 per cent of the material that should not have been sent in the first place, including a tuxedo, several derby hats and a number of vermin-infested mattresses."

One proposal advanced by the book for dealing with these convergence problems is to set up well-publicized emergency information centers throughout the country.

The authors said that accurate up-to-the-minute disaster and casualty reports could be flashed to these centers and be available on a regional basis for those personally concerned about possible victims.

Preacher Asks Toledoans To Forgive Fibbing Daughter

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Just before delivering his regular Sunday sermon, a Lutheran minister asked that his 17-year-old daughter be forgiven for telling police a phony story of being attacked by Negroes.

From his pulpit in Redeemer Lutheran Church, the Rev. Ewald G. Berger made this appeal to his congregation:

"We pray that she will receive the same love and understanding and forgiveness from you as you would expect from her and from us, for yourselves and your children."

The girl's claim of being attacked, coupled with a similar story from a nurse had created fears of racial tension here. The story by the nurse also was branded a hoax by police.

In his appeal Sunday, Mr. Berger told of giving private Communion to his daughter, Linda last Tuesday the day after she admitted the hoax. He said he was convinced she felt "repentance and sorrow for what she has done."

The minister asked that his own family be allowed "to forget what has happened." He said other parents whose children have done wrong would want to forget those kind of incidents "which can sear red hot upon your soul."

"Not that we say that what happened wasn't wrong—it was terribly wrong," he said. "But we say this too, that we have learned much that will help us in our own lives, and we hope and pray to help in the lives of others."

The minister quoted from the 25th Psalm: "Remember not the sins of my youth."

On the night of Sept. 9, Linda Berger was found lying in an alley with superficial knife wounds on her abdomen and legs, cuts and bruises on her face.

Sobbing hysterically, she told police three Negro youths had dragged her into the alley as she walked to a drugstore to buy school supplies. She said they beat her and knifed her.

Two nights later Mrs. Dolores Lotte, 27, reported to police that a Negro man invaded the surgery room of St. Vincent's Hospital and clamped an ether-soaked towel over her face.

Last week police announced that both the girl and the nurse had admitted they had lied about the so-called incidents; made them up without a shred of truth.

The girl said she had cut herself with a razor because she wanted to "punish myself."

The nurse, after taking two lie detector tests, told officers: "Forget it; I never happened. I don't know why I said it."

During the time it took police to get the admissions a demand grew throughout the community for police protection and measures to stop juvenile delinquency. Several public meetings were held to consider the problem.

2 Couples Accused of Hurting Cop

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two young couples are in jail here accused of wounding a policeman in a burglary during their joint honeymoon in Ormond Beach, Fla., last year.

Homocide Capt. David E. Kerr said one couple confessed the crime, and Florida officials are sending warrants charging assault with intent to kill.

In jail are Donald Heffner, 20; his estranged wife Rose Mary, 17; Peter Perri, 20, and his wife Marilyn, 17.

They were arrested Saturday night when police were called to Mrs. Heffner's apartment on a complaint that her husband and Perri were breaking in.

Police said Mrs. Heffner told about the Florida shooting, and that her husband confirmed her story today. Officers said Mr. and Mrs. Perri denied the story.

This was the story told by the Heffners, police said:

The two couples eloped from Cleveland and were married in Virginia. On April 22, 1956, they ran out of money in Ormond Beach and decided to burglarize a gas station. Heffner said he broke a window and entered the station while Perri stood guard.

When a policeman arrived, Perri struggled with him and was wounded. But he wrested the gun from the officer and shot him.

Perri's wound was treated with disinfectant. The couples returned to Cleveland, burying the gun in Georgia.

Police said Perri has a scar on his left side, but claimed he received it in an industrial accident.

5 'Safety' Aides Die in Pennsy Mine

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Five of 11 miners trapped by an explosion 585 feet down in a mine they were trying to make safe for fellow diggers were killed Monday near this southwestern Pennsylvania town.

One of the six rescued by heroic crews using a makeshift hoist is reported in poor condition at the Washington Hospital. He is James Wright, 59.

Killed in the blast which ripped through the Marianna mine of Bethlehem Steel Corp. were George Demko, 56, Philip Kornet, George Harmuth, Joseph Smith and Stanley Collins.

The five had a total of 17 children.

Hospitalized with Wright were Mike Knizner, Stanley Majesky, John Krupzig, Charles Sprowls and William Nelson. They are suffering from shock and burns but hospital officials said they were expected to recover.

The 11 men, many of them foremen and safety experts, had entered the mine nearly eight hours before the terrifying blast let go at 7:15 a.m.

A mine spokesman said they were attempting to repair a ventilation fan which had forced shutdown of the mine. Normally, about 600 men are employed at the mine and at least 250 would have been on duty had it not been for the ventilation trouble.

Just what caused the blast could not be determined immediately.

County Bond Sales $70,974

August sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Pickaway County totaled $70,974 according to a report of the U. S. Treasury Department. Bonds sales in the county for the first eight months of 1957 now total $425,179.

Judge William D. Radcliff, chairman of the county savings bonds committee, said:

"With more than 85 per cent of Ohio companies operating the payroll savings plan, we can easily see why the two smaller E bonds are increasing their popularity. In many instances bond holders are using their bond savings to make major purchases such as the down payment on a new home or providing higher education for their children."

Why PROCESS 14-K ... saves ... the ... day! ...

Let's be honest. Hudepohl isn't the only beer that tastes awfully good when you've finished a job or the job has kind of finished you.

But a Hudepohl drinker will tell you that for some reason or other, there's something just a little more refreshing about the cool, golden brew behind the Hudepohl label. Something a little extra friendly about the flavor. Something a little more all-around satisfying in the first (and in the last) good, generous swallow.

The "some reason or other," of course, includes a lot of things. But none quite so important as Hudepohl's special, costlier step in brewing that we call "Process 14-K."

So what's more natural, when you've popped the cap or pried open the can than to glance affectionately at that "14-K" emblem on the label and agree heartily that "14-K... saves... the... day"?
